Goddard brings Chinese culture to students

AUBURN — On Friday May 30, the Goddard School of Auburn hosted the first annual “Chinas Day of the Child!”

On this day, children were exposed to all aspects of the Chinese culture ranging from food, music and even entertainment! The day started with children making a traditional Chinese fruit salad for snack time. The salad consisted of peaches, kiwi and other fruits most children have never tried together. To our surprise, the snack was a success and made the children eager for the festivities to come.

At the Goddard School, we are working hard on incorporating diversity and world cultures into our everyday curriculum. Teachers happily bring in dishes and music to represent their cultures on a daily basis.

“Our goal is to expose the children to the different cultures of the world, in hopes of acceptance and even to spark interest in their way of life,” said Maria, a preschool teacher at Goddard.

Volunteers from Leaders Way Kung Fu Academy in Worcester came to the event and shared their talents in kung fu and even demonstrated a traditional dragon dance. Ms. Thao, an assistant teacher from the school brought in traditional dishes such as vegetable rice, lo mein and beautiful fruit jelly desserts.

The event was held during pick-up hours to ensure all families would have the opportunity to share in the festivities.

“What a beautiful event,” said one of the parents, “I’m so glad my child was so interested in kung fu.”

The children participated in arts and crafts as we made kites and learned about the Chinese calendar. The sounds of children running around exclaiming “I’m a lion! I’m a rat!” filled the Goddard School playground as the children excitingly learned about a new culture!

Students from around the world celebrate graduation from MPS

THOMPSON, Conn. — Marianapolis Preparatory School celebrated the graduation of its Class of 2014 on Sunday, June 1, handing out 92 diplomas to 85 seniors and seven postgraduates during the ceremony, including Eric Goudreau, of Auburn.

The 2014 graduating class was composed of students from six states and 10 different countries, including China, Korea, Singapore, Vietnam and Russia. Several students were also presented with individual honors for their achievements while attending the private school, and both the senior class officers and Student Council presented gifts to the school to help with the purchase of audio and visual equipment as their contribution to help future graduates.

The Rev. Timothy Roth was on hand to deliver the invocation. Salutatorian Hung Nguyen, who knew little to no English before attending the school, gave an inspiring speech about the impact Marianapolis has had on his life.

As the graduates made their way towards the graduation ceremony they rang a bell signifying their transition from student to graduate of the prestigious school.

The senior class officers address their fellow graduates, presenting money in the school as a class gift to help Marianapolis purchase audio and visual equipment like projectors.

Anthony Martucci, of Oxford, Mass., left, received the Louis Leffredo Award during the ceremony, an award presented to a graduate who most diligently endeavored to improve his or her academic standings at the school and developed exceptional character in the process.

Graduate Emily Teixeira, left, of Grafton, Mass., was awarded the Marianapolis Service Award for her continuous service to the school.

Class of 1961 graduate Fred Page returned to his roots to make the commencement address before the new crop of graduates.

Oxford (Mass.) native Nathaniel O’Connor smiles after receiving his diploma.

Brian Barrette, of Thompson, was awarded the Father Casimir Kuckell Memorial Award for Male Athlete as the most outstanding all-around male athlete in his class. Delorme native Cate O’Connor was awarded the female athlete honor.
Tonight’s Auburn High School graduation ceremony is the final one of the school’s first graduation at its current location. Tomorrow the one student who did not show up for their graduation ceremony will be a graduate. The ceremony marks the end of one student’s high school journey, and women and men’s lives, it is a meaningful event for the many exciting milestones that are shared by so many wonderful people. In the Auburn High School graduation ceremony, the students of the Class of 2014 will receive their diplomas and they will be recognized for their achievements. They will be applauded as they walk across the stage and receive their high school graduation certificates. The ceremony will take place at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, June 12, at the Auburn High School. The Auburn High School graduation ceremony is a significant milestone in the lives of the Class of 2014. It is a time of reflection and celebration, and it is a moment of pride for the students, their families, and the Auburn High School community. The Auburn High School graduation ceremony is an event that is eagerly anticipated by all who are involved. It is a time of joy and excitement, and it is a moment that will be remembered for a lifetime. The Auburn High School graduation ceremony is a testament to the hard work and dedication of the Class of 2014, and it is a celebration of their achievements and accomplishments. The Auburn High School graduation ceremony is a time of celebration and reflection, and it is a moment that will be remembered for a lifetime.
Dear Editor,

First up was the Southbridge School Day at Brooksby Farm in Peabody a week ago. The event was a huge success with kids, parents, and volunteers. It was a great day for learning about nature, wildlife, and the environment.

The event was organized by the Southbridge School District and Brooksby Farm, and it was attended by hundreds of students, teachers, and families. The day included various activities such as nature walks, games, and workshops, which helped students learn about the environment in a fun and interactive way.

I was delighted to see so many students and teachers participating in the event. It is important for schools to provide opportunities for students to learn about the environment and to help them develop a sense of responsibility for the planet.

I would like to express my gratitude to the Southbridge School District and Brooksby Farm for organizing this event. I believe that events like this can help students develop a love for nature and a commitment to protecting the environment.

Sincerely,

Adam Minor

Auburn’s baseball season ends in quarterfinals

ROCKETS

Auburn (12-9) will next take on top seeded Assabet Valley Tech (17-1), while No. 9 Monty Tech finished its campaign with a record of 10-11.

Kozlowski’s two-hitter came with 10 strikeouts, two walks and a hit batsmen, and he helped his cause with a two-RBI single to make the score 8-0.

The Rockets struck first in the third inning with two runs on a Pat Fitzgerald RBI single and a D.J. Scavone bases loaded walk, but Auburn's rally was capped by another error. In the frame a Kyle Quitadamo sacrifice bunt and coinciding error plated one. Ryan Malaczy ripped an RBI single, Steve Saucier added an RBI groundout and a Fitzgerald squeeze bunt scored another before Kozlowski's hit.

All nine Auburn starters reached base at least once, while just seven Bulldogs got on against Kozlowski and relief pitcher Josh Boucher.

Update: Auburn’s season then ended on June 2 when top seeded Assabet Valley Tech (18-1) topped the Rockets, 3-0, in the quarterfinals. Auburn’s season ended with a record of 12-10.
The Auburn News will be featuring High School Graduations for Auburn High School and Bay Path Vocational in the June 20th issue. If you would like to place a Congratulatory Message for your graduate, please call June at 508-909-4062 or email your message with or without a photo to june@stonebridgepress.com.

Fact or Fiction?

Gardening Challenge

Having a garden can be great fun. Here are some questions about some gardening basics. How many can you answer correctly?

1) You can plant a garden almost anywhere. Fact or Fiction?

2) You will need some tools like a hoe and a rake to make your garden and keep it growing. Fact or Fiction?

3) You can plant almost anything in your garden and it will grow. Fact or Fiction?

4) Tomatoes, radishes and zucchini are some of the easiest vegetables to grow. Fact or Fiction?

5) Pumpkins and strawberries are some of the easiest fruits to grow. Fact or Fiction?

6) Whatever you plant will grow fast and be ready to eat in a few days. Fact or Fiction?

7) You can’t water your garden enough. Fact or Fiction?

8) You should wear a hat and sunscreen when working in your garden. Fact or Fiction?

9) Once a garden is planted, there’s little to do afterwards. Fact or Fiction?

10) You might be able to donate any leftovers from your garden. Fact or Fiction?

THE BIGGEST

Planning a garden and watching it grow can be exciting, especially when you find a big piece of fruit or vegetable in the middle of several smaller ones. You might wonder why that one grew bigger than the rest. Some gardeners know the answer to that question and have made it their mission to grow some of the biggest vegetables and fruit in the world.

One such gardener is John Evans. A resident of Alaska, Evans holds seven world records for giant vegetables. He has grown a 35-pound head of broccoli, an 18-pound carrot, a 96-pound kohlrabi, a 42-pound beet, a 46-pound head of red cabbage, a 28-pound head of kale and a 49-pound stalk of celery.

Evans holds many other state records. He learned about gardening from his family, and amazingly, he grows his garden without using chemicals.

Outdoor Kitchen, Are What’s In: Top Tips For Creating A Better Outdoor Kitchen

- AVOID COMMON MISTAKES

Inefficient lighting and counter space are the two most major mistakes people make with outdoor kitchens. Faulk said that there are two scenarios:

- “Without enough light where you cook at night, especially at the far end of the room, you’re not going to be able to see what you’re doing,” he said. Faulk recommended ensuring there will be enough light over or around the grill to be able to see what the lights the bamboo are not block lighting from going through to illuminate the shadow to be cast over the cooking surfaces.

- “You need space to work, so you need to have one or more of those three major tasks under one roof on a countertop. Having a room in the middle of the place in which different home-based cooking will be functionable and enjoyable for you and your family. Faulk said there should be something over the countertop where certain tasks can be accomplished.”

A grill should have 24 inches of counter space on one side and 18 inches on the other, so the cook can take food from one platter and put it on the grill, Faulk said. “After the food is done, the cook can take it all off the platter on the other side of the grill and make sides in 18 inches on either side to make enough room in side to make side dishes or stock dirty dishes.”

Not all cabinetry or counter- top is made for outdoor kitchens. Faulk said, “Ask by asking the company and see if you learn that the company can handle certain elements when the temperature rises above 95 degrees outdoors. Food-safe refrigeration means the kitchen will be functional and enjoyable for you and your family. Faulk said there should be something over the countertop where certain tasks can be accomplished.”

“More often than not, a cabinet is not made to be stored outside all year,” he said. Faulk said not all are equal all year long.”

- INSIDER TIPS

The smallest details make a big difference in how an outdoor kitchen turns out. Faulk gave some of his favorite insider tips that make an outdoor kitchen even better.

On The Edge—A drip edge is a narrow, sloped groove cut along the underside of the counter- top. Its purpose is to prevent water from running under the counter and into cabinets. By cutting a 4-inch deep groove there’s a loss of 1 inch from the counter edge, a barrier is created that intercepts water from making its journey under the counter and into the cabin- ets.

BTU-tiful Power—To get the best performance, Faulk said the new Whirlpool Outdoor Kitchen, “When we’re designing kitchens, Faulk said not all are equal all year long.”

- Top Tips For Growing Tasty Tomatoes

- PLANT

- Soil seeds indoors, into individual containers, 1” deep and one per cell. Keep cool and moist until germination seven to ten days at 60° to 70°. When seedlings emerge at least two true leaves, acclimatize in a sheltered place outdoors in a sheltered place outdoors.

- Pre-grown plants are a great, unbeatable option for families who are not experienced_greenhouse growers. Great for younger seedlings and nurtured by trained horticulturists, plus they should be added to the top of any outdoor kitchen shopping list. A number of mark- eting and caging. Emerging fruits gain brightness on the vine in harmony and seem immune to pests, disease, and often attract beneficial insects and birds. Rosemary seeds are a great choice for growing in small outdoor spaces.

- PICK

- Pick tomatoes when fully colored and soft to the touch. Pick regularly to improve air circulation and reduced disease outbreaks on plants with susceptible varieties. The best time for picking is in the morning to ensure you get fresh tomatoes. Also, young, unripe or green tomatoes can be ripened in brown bags at room tempera- ture. You may try them in curries, casseroles and a tomato sauce.

Chimney sweeps

$50 OFF any service if you mention this ad. (Not valid on prior services.)

We specialize in the cleaning of residential and commercial chimneys. We offer positive answers to common questions:

• How often should I have my chimney cleaned?

Our answer: Twice a year, during the season when you are using your fireplace.

• How often should I have my chimney swept?

Our answer: Once a year, preferably in the spring.

• Why is it necessary to clean the chimney?

Our answer: To eliminate creosote build-up and flue gas residue that can cause fires.

• Can I do it myself?

Our answer: No. It is essential to have a professional chimney sweep do the job. A chimney sweep will use a state-of-the-art camera to check your chimney for damage, canaries, or other issues.

FAMILY VACATION IDEAS

(NAPSA) You don’t have to go far to figure out the best vacation value. Experts agree that even with the rising cost of gas, the traditional family summer vacation by car costs less, is more convenient and is not as stressful as flying.

According to the Car Care Council, the cost for a family of four traveling by car is about the same as one person traveling by air.

Based on a family of four traveling 1,600 miles round-trip, the council compared the cost of flying vs. driving.

By air:
A family of four traveling by air will spend approximately $1,324 for tickets, based on recent statistics from the Bureau of Transportation Statistics. Add to that transportation to and from the airport and/or parking.

By car:
If gasoline prices were as high as $5 a gallon, the cost for a family of four traveling by SUV would be $314.

That estimate not only includes the cost of gasoline but also tire wear and maintenance, based on the American Automobile Association’s vehicle operating costs. Other advantages include:

- Leave when you want from where you want
- No air parking
- No waiting in long ticket counter and security lines
- No weather delays
- Pack whatever and as much as you want

Before hitting the road for your next vacation, you may want to set aside a few minutes to determine if your car is ready for long-distance travel.

A 10-minute checkup should do it:
- Check all fluids, including engine oil, power steering and brake fluids and transmission, as well as windshield washer solvent and antifreeze.
- Check the tires and belts, which can become unstable, brittle, frayed, loose or show signs of excessive wear.
- Check the tires, including tire pressure and tread. blown worn or abused is need for wheel alignment.

- Stop and stretch anytime
- More and better meal options
- No rental car or taxi expenses
- More legroom and overall comfort
- No strangers sitting next to you
- Enjoy the ride.

Before taking a long road trip, be sure to give your car a quick checkup. If any repairs need to be made, it would be better to make them at home or at a repair shop you know and trust.

The Car Care Council is the source of information for the “Bad Car Care Awards” consumer education campaign promoting the benefits of regular vehicle care, maintenance and repair for consumers. For a copy of the council’s “Car Care Guide” or for more information, visit www.carcare.org.
