POW gone, but never forgotten

By Thomas Mattson

NORTHBRIDGE — Bill Jandtke, a former policeman and selective service rejectee, who fought in Vietnam and worked as a human communications specialist in the Vietnamese War zone, was one of 38 white crosses stuck on a slope off Hill Street Monday afternoon to passively protest against the war in Iraq. But those crosses lighted by the sun last Friday and Saturday and by floodlights at night barked back to another time, to another war.

And to 38 veterans from Massachusetts who did not come back from Vietnam. In fact, there was no trace of them. So they are still referred to as POWs — Prisoners of War. Although with the passing of time it seems more and more probable that the POWs have died, there is still always the possibility, the hope against hope, that there is a prisoner of war who is still alive somewhere in Southeast Asia. Perhaps the height of the crosses last Saturday night to honor those 38 Massachusetts members of the American armed forces who were taken prisoner in Vietnam, or who were missing in action, or who were killed in action but whose bodies were not recovered, was a line of volunteers who helped light a candle for each person who fought in Vietnam but did not return.

Each candle was enclosed in a glass container and all were

Police reserves appointed

BY THOMAS BATTON

NORTHBRIDGE — Three new reserve patrollers have been named to the police department.

They are Brian Collins, of 326 Mason Road, Randy Lloyd, of 49 Wing Road, and Jarrod Woeller, of 30 Loring Drive.

Introducing them to selectmen at a board meeting Sept. 22, Police Lt. Tommy LaRue said he was very pleased to introduce Theodore Kozak and the Board of Selectmen to appoint the three as “permanent interim police officers.”

LaRue said an interview panel of Police Chief Walter Washar, LaRue and Detective Donald Roy selected the three candidates. All three candidates graduated in Northbridge and graduated from Northbridge High School.

Collins attended Framingham State College and is currently enrolled at Quinsigamond Community College where he is studying criminal justice. He works as a dispatcher for the Northbridge Police Department.

Lloyd attends Curry College, where he seeks a master’s degree in criminal justice. He is a graduate of Bridgewater State College, where he obtained a bachelor’s degree in criminal justice. He currently works as a patrol officer at Curry College.

Woeller received a bachelor’s degree in criminal justice. He is a graduate of Fitchburg State University.

Current police chief, Matthew McGowan, said Selectmen Chairman Joseph Montecalvo, “I always was sure they would contribute ideas and vibrancy to the police force.”

The three candidates grew up in Northbridge and currently work at the Commerce Insurance Corporation. The three candidates were appointed as full-time police officers in Millville.

The Board of Selectmen unanimously approved the appointments and individual selectmen welcomed them.

Selectman James Murphy welcomed them and said he was sure they would contribute ideas and vibrancy to the department.

“When I talk about the Northbridge police sheep”, said Selectman Chairman Joseph Montecalvo, “I always hear about them.”

MCGOWAN APPOINTED

In other action, selectmen appointed Matthew McGowan, of Olivia Drive, to the Industrial Development Finance Authority & Commission.

McGowan moved into this town in January 2007. He is owner coordinator of Possible and the Floral Program for 21 stores in the North Atlantic Region attached to Whole Foods Market in Cambridge. He has a bachelor’s degree in hotel and restaurant management from Fitchburg State University.

McGowan is a volunteer with the American Red Cross Disaster Action Team and a pilot program, a reserve coach and volunteer for the U.S. Olympic Committee.

“My business experience gives me a good understanding of how to build a strong business tax base for the town,” he told selectmen.

THE LIMITS OF HUMANITY

“The limits of human knowledge are so great and such an unknown quantity that we cannot dogmatically say whether there is or is not a God. It is much safer to believe that there is a God and to trust in his goodness and mercy.”

William McGowan was appointed last week to the Industrial Development Finance Authority & Commission.

Transfer of H20L

Three local H2O Landscaping and H2OTO Landscaping have merged.

“I’m happy to welcome the H2OTO Landscaping, which has been family-owned H2O Landscaping for over 13 years, to our business,” said Patrick Meehan, owner of H20L.

“We have been in the business for over 30 years and are excited to welcome H2OTO into the H2O family,” said Meehan.

“By working together, we can better serve our customers and expand our services in the area,” said Meehan.

H20L is a full-service landscaping company that offers a wide range of services, including landscaping, irrigation, and snow removal.

“We are looking forward to the growth and success that H2OTO brings to our business,” said Meehan.

“By merging with H2OTO, we are able to offer our customers even more options and services,” said Meehan.

“We are excited to see the possibilities that this new partnership brings,” said Meehan.

“Together, we can better serve our customers and provide them with the highest quality services,” said Meehan.

“We are excited to offer our customers even more options and services,” said Meehan.

Ryan Wood and two of his R.J.W. Land Management employees spent nearly a full workday Sept. 15 pruning the pond area’s massive old oak trees of dead and diseased limbs, thereby preventing any of them from falling on visitors to the popular site.

“The old oak’s trunk was some 50 inches wide,” Lewcon said, “but was so diseased that a mere couple of inches of healthy wood was responsible for holding it up. Most of the volunteers are familiar with such limbs in serious need of trimming.”

Pout Pond has no funds budgeted for maintenance; other than a small amount of money needed to provide a portable bathroom and to perform state-mandated weekly water quality tests. The area is monitored and cleaned up by a group of volunteers.

“Only a few know that there was one tree limb this summer that landed on the beach that was so heavy it required two people to lug it into the woods,” he said. “This is the potential of any kind of tree service that we offer something we could control.”

“In order to give back for his own appreciation and enjoyment of Pout Pond, and to safe guard p e t i t e r v i s i t o r s , R a y a n volunteered to do the work at Pout Pond reasons that end up in a local hospital emergency room. ‘People like me who work with trees feel responsible to the public to keep everyone safe,’ he said. ‘Who goes into a park and looks up for falling tree branches but the

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
Putting country first?

To the Editor:

On Tuesday, Sept. 15, the combined votes of the Douglas selectmen and the state district delegate from the district of Webster supported the nomination of Kevin Kuros to the State Senate. This decision was made in a public and open hearing in the State House. The nomination of Kevin Kuros was made to fill the spot of former State Senator, William G. Sturla, who recently passed away. The nomination was made by the Webster selectmen and the State Senate District of Webster.

This decision was made in a public and open hearing in the State House. The nomination of Kevin Kuros was made to fill the spot of former State Senator, William G. Sturla, who recently passed away. The nomination was made by the Webster selectmen and the State Senate District of Webster.

I would like to express my congratulations to Kevin Kuros on his nomination. He is a dedicated public servant and someone who has dedicated his life to serving the people of Massachusetts.

Kuros is a man of principle and integrity. He is a strong proponent of fiscal responsibility and has a proven track record of fiscal discipline. He has been a vocal advocate for lower taxes and a balanced budget, and has consistently supported policies that promote economic growth and job creation.

I am confident that Kevin Kuros will be an effective and dedicated State Senator. He has the experience, knowledge, and leadership skills necessary to serve as a strong voice for the people of Massachusetts. I look forward to working with him to promote policies that will benefit all residents of the State.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

State Senator for District of Webster

I have always been a little suspicious of board games, as I usually played against the locker boy as my opponent, which I knew I would win. In my case, I would win by 30 or so. We played a varied selection of board games and played for a nickel a game. I think I may have won around 60 out of 100 games.

I also have on my desk a traditional playing card set from the 18th century. I also think there is a traditional playing card set from the 18th century. I also think there is a traditional playing card set from the 18th century.

With apologies to youth I just think there is a traditional playing card set from the 18th century. I also think there is a traditional playing card set from the 18th century.

Recently, I stood in a line that stretched around a neighbor's house to purchase Pokemon cards. My son and I both had Pokemon cards and we played the games using them. We both enjoyed the experience and it was a fun way to spend time together.

As for Pokemon, I realize I am not going to take any Pokemon cards for myself to keep as a hobby or to sell. I think I should find a way to keep them safe and display them. I also think I should make sure that I keep them away from other people who might want to take them.

We are just weeks away from a critical election that will determine who will run this country for the next four years. This election may require more than a vote — it may require a third option, a consensus that there are certain things that will determine who we choose to be.

I am not a Democrat or a Republican. I belong to a party called "The United States," which I believe has never been stronger than today. I have been a member of the United States since I was born, and I want to be a member of the President of the United States, not the vice president — or any other political party at all.

This election should be the most invigorating our country has ever had. A woman is running to be the president of our country, and a man is running as a vice president. No one has ever been living in the United States as we are today. We are just weeks away from a critical election that will determine who will run this country for the next four years. Selectmen decide most details of new manager’s contract

BY ANDY LEVIN

UXBRIDGE — Selectmen have settled most of the terms of the next town manager’s contract, though some potentially critical aspects of the deal remain on the table.

Last week the board agreed in principle to terms that would allow the new town manager to start no earlier than March 1. Additional details such as a starting salary and the terms of a year-long probationary period will be finalized at the board’s next meeting, set for Oct. 27.

Most significantly, however, the board agreed at their Sept. 16 meeting to create a new position for a town manager who could simultaneously fill most of the terms of the next town manager. Selectmen agreed at their Sept. 16 meeting that the new manager would be offered a year of paid leave during his or her first year of employment and that the town manager would be allowed to participate in DPW operations, possibly overseeing DPW heads. Selectmen also established earlier that the new manager would have a master’s degree in public administration and that the position is required for the state’s town management heads. Additionally, the new manager would also oversee DPW operations, possibly overseeing DPW heads. NEASC compliments NHS, offers recommendations

BY THOMAS MATTSON/TIMELINE

NORTHBRIDGE — In a mass ive, 61-page report released Friday by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC), the Northbridge High School (NHS) was praised for its commitment to educational excellence and improvement. The NEASC’s visit was the second to NHS in the past 10 years, and the report included suggestions for additional improvements.

The report also commended the school’s dedication to the meaningful development of academic program, its comprehensive physical facilities, and its commitment to equitable and just treatment of students. However, the report also called for the school to implement a formal process to provide regular assessment and feedback to students and parents, and to ensure that all students have access to appropriate resources and support services.

The report also suggested increased focus on community engagement and service learning, and recommended that the school consider incorporating more community-based projects and service-learning opportunities into its curriculum. The NEASC also suggested that the school consider implementing a formal process to provide regular assessment and feedback to students and parents, and to ensure that all students have access to appropriate resources and support services.

Locals on display at stArt on the Street

REGION — Several artists and crafters from the Blackstone Valley were among the hundreds to set up shop last Sunday at stArt on the Street in Worcester.

Billied as “Central Massachusetts’ largest cultural street festival,” stArt on the Street featured approximately 200 artists as well as live music and food, all along a stretch of Park Avenue closed off to vehicular traffic from Pleasant Street to Highland Street.

There was, however, plenty of foot traffic at the third annual block party Sept. 21 — perhaps as many as 25,000 people from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to the event’s organizers.

“We set up at 10:30 in the morning and we already had guests, so we consider this to be a smashing success,” said Tina Zielny, a co-director of stArt. “We have great entertainment and the street is filled end to end with people shopping and eating.”

The fest, which began on Main Street in 2003, grew to 10 blocks six years ago, but eventually outgrew that venue due to the increasingly large number of vendors around the region who wanted to take advantage of the massive crowds stArt draws.

Event organizers pride themselves on the event’s eclectic musical acts, but it’s the artists themselves who make stArt on the Street so unique. From exquisite hand-painted velvet scarves to funky, occult-influenced sketches, from offbeat photographs of local architecture to traditional watercolors of rural New England, just about every type of work was represented along Park Avenue’s main drag.

A more-than-usual late September day added to the event’s festive atmosphere.

“The day is great; you couldn’t ask for better weather,” said Mike Zeis, an Uxbridge photographer who wanted to take advantage of better weather,” said Mike Zeis, an Uxbridge photographer who set up shop at stArt on Sunday. “It was a great day — it’s nice.”

“There are a lot of volunteers helping — it’s our best day,” said Danold and Marina-Lyn Ampugosman, a brother and sister partnership from Whitinsville, who were on hand marketing their Ampageoomian, a brother and sister partnership from Whitinsville, were on hand marketing their

Bartlett High edges Uxbridge Spartans, 13-8

BY THOMAS MATTSON
TRIBUNE STAFF WRITER

UXBRIDGE — The Uxbridge Spartans’ football team did everything but win its game against visiting Bartlett Friday night, Sept. 19, under the lights for homecoming.

The Spartans led Bartlett, 8-7, with a minute left in the game, but the Indians’ senior quarterback Jesse Bond unleashed a bomb and later followed it up with a zinger into the end zone that sealed the Bartlett victory, 13-8.

It was especially disappointing for Uxbridge because the Spartans really dominated the line of scrimmage all night. The first half was played entirely on the Bartlett side of the field, but Uxbridge sputtered on several potential scoring opportunities.

Particularly impressive for Uxbridge were junior running back Pat McCrohan and senior captain and tight end/linebacker Jake Storey, who sacked Bond several times.

The first chance for Uxbridge came at the start of the second quarter, when junior quarterback Jason Silbor, on a fourth and 2 at the Bartlett 30, gambled with a pass in the left flat to senior wide receiver Chris Gomes, who raced down the left sideline for an apparent touchdown. But it was called back on a holding call.

After taking an Uxbridge punt from the Bartlett 40 to its 10, the Indians’ Bond hit junior wide receiver Shareem Torres good to the Bartlett 33. Bond threw another completion to the Spartans’ 20, where senior captain and defensive back Cory Roman stopped the advance.

Bond then reared back and unloosed a bomb down the left side, Torres making a spectacular catch with an Uxbridge defender shadowing him. The play went to the Uxbridge 11, a 58-yard play. After two incompletions, Bond found senior wide receiver Randy Katz in the right end zone for the game’s first score. The kick made it 7-0. In the second quarter, Uxbridge roared back, with McCrohan taking it in from the three. The PAT kick was blocked by Indian linebacker Sean DaRocha. An Indian picked up the ball and ran it out to about the Bartlett 35. But the referees called a penalty against Bartlett for infringing over the Uxbridge center during the PAT attempt. And the Spartans, who thought they trailed by 7-6, saw McCrohan sweep the right side for the two points and now Uxbridge led in the game, 8-7.

With 2:29 left in the game, Uxbridge punted to Bartlett’s 42. Uxbridge senior captain and tackle Dan Cahill stopped Nick Cameron for a 3-yard loss to the Bartlett 39. Bond hit Chris Dery for eight to the Indians’ 47. Facing fourth and five, Bond passed to Randy Katz, whom Ronan hit at the 23-yard line. It was third and 8 for Bartlett on the Spartan 23. Bond threw an incomplete pass and now it was fourth and eight. With 54 seconds left, Bond hit Katz good to the 10. Bond kept left, but was forced out of bounds at the 6 by Cahill and McCrohan. Cameron took it to the 3, and Bond hit Katz on an Uxbridge defender in the right end Zone for the victory. Both Uxbridge and Bartlett are now 1-1.

Although senior quarterback Zach Etrelas was 14 of 22 for 166 yards and a TD pass, coach Ken LaChapelle said he thought Mahoney’s performance — 116 yards on 16 carries — was the outstanding feature of the team’s offense.

“We knew we had the potential to be in somewhat of a battle,” LaChapelle said.

In addition to citing Mahoney’s running, LaChapelle praised the work of the offensive line. "Joel Medeiros, Nick Duane, Cory Keenan, Dave Crum and Paul Wallin. Mahoney ran it in for a score in the first period and again in the third. But the game was still a two-TD difference through most of the last period. With 2:09 left in the game, Zachell and wide receiver Casey Weppert combined to seal the victory with Zachell’s 12-yard pass to Weppert in the end zone.
Uxbridge needs late-game goal to beat Pioneers

SPARTANS LOSE SECOND HALF LEAD, COACH MOVES PLAYER TO CHANGE PACE

SOUTHBRIDGE — Uxbridge coach Steve Taylor moved sophomore Kyle Gordon, a member of the New England Revolution Under 20 Academies, to a different position in the final 10 minutes of their contest Wednesday, Sept. 17 vs. Southbridge. Gordon made six saves.

The North Brookfield defense had some chances in the last 10 minutes, but no legitimate scoring opportunities came about.

“I think we didn’t have a lot of good scoring chances, but in the first half we were doing fairly well at advancing the ball,” Southbridge coach Jeff Hicks said. “But we weren’t finishing the play.

“(The Douglas) defense was well organized and they didn’t give us a lot of easy chances,” Hicks continued. “I think they were able to execute a string of nice plays to open the second half, as Douglas took many shots, but the defenders were able to block the moving balls out of harm’s way.

But the Spartans had the ball with 16 to play as Torres dribbled the ball down the left side, and pushed forward past a couple defenders. Chmiolina ran in to block her shot, but Torres was able to ease the ball to the right, finding the net.

“The once the game settled down we started to play our game,” Stand said. “The second half, we played with more composure.

With about three minutes remaining, the Indian hosts eventually went on to win the on the way to the final 1-0 win in the Dual Valley Conference (2-2-3 overall, 1-1 DVC). Southbridge dropped to 2-3-2.

The Spartans now look to exact revenge on Sutton, as they hosted the Suzies Saturday, Sept. 20 during homeshowing weekend. The week-end before, Sutton beat Douglas 2-0.

About nine minutes later, Southbridge had a free kick just inside midfield. Matt Losavio boot-ed the ball, and Cesar Jubin was able to head it towards the crossbar. But the shot eventually sailed just high, and the ball had a shot.

Ashley Janusch made two saves, earning the win for Douglas, while Chmiolina made six saves.

Standing was pleased with the outcome of the game, as Douglas picked up their first win in the Dual Valley Conference (2-2-3 overall, 1-1 DVC).

The North Brookfield dropped to 1-3 overall and 0-4 in the DVC.

SOUTHBRIDGE — After North Brookfield senior goalie Lincoln scored just 2 minutes, 25 seconds into their Dual Valley (2-3-2 overall, 1-1 DVC) contest, the game was basically over on the face of it.

The Tigers only put nine shots on net, with the Indians only managed two, as Douglas was victorious, 3-0.

In that second minute, Sarah Cahill had a throw in for Douglas, and after finding Alyson Torres, Torres carried the ball on the right side and fed it to Courtney Pellen, who slid it past Indians goalkeeper Brianma Chmiolina into the score.

“I think in the beginning we weren’t ready to play,” said Douglas coach Jarred Stand.

“I think we were a bit lackluster out on the field, and the emotion just wasn’t there. So we came back and put more shots to the net. The Tigers were able to score and get past a diving Chris Bretana, and didn’t execute,” Taylor said. “It was a very frustrating game for our team.”

Because of that, and some tremendous hustle on the part of the Tigers, the Pioneers were able to get past a diving Chris Bretana, and didn’t execute,” Taylor said. “It was a very frustrating game for our team.”

by in his second term as an Undersecretary for Planning, he also is also a member of the Undersecretary for Planning staff.

During a phone interview conducted last Wednesday, Vaidya, who supports him, especially in his efforts to help the state, explained a final tally of 260 to 188 at the time.

“Douglas has always been very grateful and very pleased that we were able to win 26-11,” Preston said. “I’d like to thank those voters who expressed their faith and confidence in me and that would also like to thank my family, friends and supporters for all their tireless commitment to this campaign over the last two years and to congratulate Mr. Kujawski for his 2-year victory.”

For Kujawski, the task now turns toward the next big goal—"a new building proposal ongoing again by January 2009."

Without the ski school’s contribution, there would have been no $1.2 Super 1 project, no $8.5 million district-wide facilities projects or any extra-curricular activities.

Although the school board has scheduled to be well-managed in fiscal 2008 budget to prepare $777 reserve funds, several items, including a $57,000 surplus in that account.

TOWN MANAGER COMMENTS

In a recent interview, Northbridge residents cannot be counted, he said, "and we were able to handle his defense of the board's decision to keep the kindergarten issue." The state of the state's economy without loans. To me, the Douglas vote didn't become a whining. Despite that, Kujawski has many people who have donated to my daily basis. My special interest in the people that helped me, I've already worked on...my personal business accounts. The fiscal 2008 budget, it also revealed that he had no heart. He then listed a number of successful fundraising events.

The school department will have some surplus in that account and there was no worry that the account will be exhausted.

Northbridge Master Plan Update Committee forges ahead

PLAN

- Northbridge Town Hall, Monday, July 5, 2004

The talk: 30th workshop is the first of its kind. Some of the ideas the Update Committee has been considering include:

- The possibility of a town-wide trail system and an on-site train station.
- Condominium complexes.
- Commercial districts.
- A storm water management and infrastructure plan.

For approximately 135 years (1831–1966) Whitinsville Works existed on part of which is now a residential area.

The essence of the town was slow building. In the years after the town council, the town’s first formal master plan, came the town’s first formal master plan, the town’s first formal master plan, the town’s first formal master plan, the town’s first formal master plan, the town’s first formal master plan, the town’s first formal master plan. Barbara Gaudette served, but significant portions of the latter are slowly fading. The question is how to use this town.

For approximately 135 years (1831–1966) Whitinsville Works existed on part of which is now a residential area. There has been a great concern for conservation efforts and the town’s first formal master plan. Other members were appointed after this date. Barbara Gaudette served, but significant portions of the latter are slowly fading. The question is how to use this town.

UXBRIDGE

- Stephen Warburton, 21, of 51 Oak St., Uxbridge, was arrested Sept. 5 and charged with operating under the influence of liquor and marked lanes violation. He was held pending arraignment in Uxbridge District Court.

- Patrick C. Murphy, 24, of 76 West Hartford Ave., Uxbridge, was arrested Sept. 16 and charged with breaking and entering building nighttime for felony, destruction of property under $250, malicious (screen), warrant default. He was held pending arraignment in Uxbridge District Court.

DOUGLAS

- Scott Mackay, 37, of Plymouth, was arrested at approximately 1 a.m. on Friday, Sept. 19, and charged with operating under the influence of liquor/fourth offense, open container of alcohol in vehicle, speeding, marked lanes violation, and registration not in possession.

He was held pending arraignment in Uxbridge District Court.

Mackay was booked at the Douglas police station and held on $3,540 bail until arraignment in Uxbridge District Court. Police said he failed his field sobriety tests.

The arrest was made by Officers Gould and Yannino.
Questions, Questions

Over 11 million people worldwide have now attended an Alpha course, an opportunity to explore the meaning of life, running in terms of thousands of churches of all denominations, and at universities, in prisons and on military bases across the world. All are invited to this 11-week Alpha course which includes a free supper each Sunday. The supper is followed by a wide talk and a time of discussion. We start on Sunday, Sept. 8 at 6:39 pm and will meet weekly for 11 weeks.

Check out what your local farms have to offer this season in next week’s issue of the Blackstone Valley Tribune!

BY ANDY LEON

URXBID—A recent inspection of the town’s buildings revealed several structural issues, according to Uxbridge Town Manager Jill Myers, Building Inspector Gary Hand observed problems at Town Hall, at Uxbridge Fair Park and at the library on the north side of town. He said renovations were in order and that the town needs to engage in some site work, as well as suggestions to address each building’s issues.

He said the circa-1940 north-side fair park would require more space because the building is not large enough to accommodate the necessary space for events.

“The space is so tight that they have to pull a truck out of the building to work on it,” Hand noted in the meeting. “I think that is a good opportunity to maybe locate the fair park in a new modern fire station. After some study, I think that the site would not be enough land to expand the existing building in place.”

Hand repaired to stop damage, and the town could also build a building for another year or two until replacement is built. Meanwhile, Fire Chief Peter Ostrevsky hopes to move forward with plans to build a replacement on fire town-owned land on the north side known as Gary Rock.

The public library, according to Hand, would like to move to the land-accommodated space for a library. Water infiltration, peeling paint and black mold were pointed out in the period kitchen. Water-damaged shingles or skylights or replacing it as well as ventilating with waterproofing and masonry maintenance continues to be a problem for the building’s issues.

Hand suggested removing the rotted wood from the trusses of the buildings. He said the building has significant structural issues in a second spill in particular, its a sloping floor near the stage, adjacent to the library’s exit doors. There also noted a structural issue regarding an apparently missing column in the library.

The existing building in place.

There is not enough land to expand whether the building could be expanded or the library could be extended. John Mitchell, at (508) 234-3544, or Mike Tatarek at (508) 234-5768. The town clerk’s office will round out the festival.

A fundraiser to benefit the family of trees-n-old muscle. The event will be held from 5 p.m. at the park. Tickets are $25 and includes a meal and refreshments. More information on www.eventbrite.com.

Rob Adams celebrates 25 years at the Ugly Duckling

M ost working musicians would be lucky to land a residency at a place they love as much as Adams loves the Ugly Duckling. It’s an ideal commuter location. His favorite aspect of the job is the 24 club rooms, which are perfect for hosting many different types of events.

"My biggest musical thrill has been playing with the Silverbacks," he said. "Not many bands have the opportunity to perform as a group made up of all 24 club rooms!"

Robert Adams, 57, has been working at the Ugly Duckling for 25 years. He said he loves his job and would do it for free if he could.

"I just love the energy here," he said. "The people are great, and the music is amazing."

Adams started working at the Ugly Duckling in 1997 as a bartender. He was hired by Wally Frenzel, who was the owner at the time.

"Wally was a great guy," Adams said. "He was always there for his employees and made sure we had a good time working there."

The Ugly Duckling has been a Worcester landmark since 1927. It was originally a speakeasy during Prohibition and later became a popular jazz club in the 1970s.

"The club has really changed over the years," Adams said. "But I love being a part of it and seeing all the different musicians perform here."

Adams said his favorite memories from working at the Ugly Duckling include playing with bands like the Silverbacks and the Hitmen.

"Those were great times," he said. "I'll never forget those memories."

Adams said he plans to continue working at the Ugly Duckling for as long as he can.

"I love my job and the people here," he said. "I just hope I can keep playing music and make more memories."

2009 Honda Fit Would be Perfect if Stability Control Was Standard Equipment

By Keith Griffin

Because I’m tall and I’m always on the lookout for sub-compacts and compact cars that accommodate people of my build. In the past, I’ve written about the top 5 cars for the big and tall that are fuel efficient. Vehicles on the list included the Audi TT, the Aston Martin V8 Vantage, the Ford Escape Hybrid, the Mazda5, and the Honda Fit. Well, it’s no brainer that I’m going to keep the 2009 Honda Fit on that list now. Why is that? Because it’s grown larger inside without feeling bulkier on the outside. This is one sub-compact that truly fits the needs of all aspects of the American driving public.

The interior width has grown by 1.2 inches. It sounds small, but in a sub-compact every inch helps. The wheelbase has gained 1.9 inches, while the overall length has been stretched by 4.2 inches to 161.6 inches. The interior width has grown by 1.2 inches. The big selling point for the Fit has always been its functionality. One of the features I love in the new model are the back row, folded, is only slightly smaller than a Honda Element. By the way, according to the EPA, your average fuel economy cost for the Fit in the five-speed automatic transmission is going to be $1812. That ties it for the most fuel-efficient automatic transmission non-hybrid on the market with the Toyota Yaris and its 4-speed automatic that is mated to a 1.5-liter, 106-horsepower engine. (The five-speed manual Fit has fuel economy estimates of 27 city and 38 highway with an annual fuel cost of $1393.)

The bight selling point for the Fit has always been its functionality. One of the features I love in the new model are the back row, folded, is only slightly smaller than a Honda Element.
